

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

August 13, 2013 - Oswego Illinois. Ray Brownfield, Accredited Land Consultant (ALC) and Accredited Farm Manager (AFM), President of Land Pro, LLC is pleased to announce his company has retained The Loranda Group to assist Land Pro with its farmland auction services.

Land Pro recently opened an office in Oswego, Illinois and offers farmland management and farmland brokerage in addition to auction services. “I’m really excited about this relationship,” says Brownfield. “I have watched Loranda provide the highest level of professional service that is unique to the auction industry, and I see this as a great opportunity for both companies.”

The Loranda Group has provided quality farmland auction services for nearly twenty years and has offices in Bloomington and Channahon, Illinois and also Lafayette, Indiana. LeeAnn Moss, CAI, ALC, ARA, Auctioneer for Loranda, has won numerous awards including, “Auction of the Year” as chosen by the National Auctioneers Association. Loranda has sold thousands of acres across the Corn Belt, ranging from development parcels as small as 10 acres, up to the 4,800 acre Allerton Farm in Central Illinois.

John Moss, ALC, AFM, President of Loranda, is equally enthused about the relationship with Land Pro. “I’ve known Ray Brownfield for over 30 years and he has an impeccable reputation in the industry. Adding the auction method of sale to his existing menu of services will add real value to his clients.”
